

CHSC6360 STUDENT LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Demonstrate knowledge about the incidence, prevalence, risk, causes and consequences of sexual health problems, including, but not limited to, sexual dysfunction, rape, unintended teen pregnancy, and developmental sexual abnormalities.
- Describe the various influences on the evolution of human sexual behavior.
- Describe how culture, knowledge, and attitudes affect sexual relationships and behaviors.
- Explain sexual behavior using well-known psychosocial and behavioral theories.
- Demonstrate a high level of comfort with verbal communication about various aspects of human sexuality.
- Appreciate the complexities and difficulties of approaching sex as a science and conducting human sexuality research.