Join the Family Violence Prevention Fund, American Public Health Association Student Assembly (APHA-SA), and the Office on Women's Health for an energizing two-hour session on Domestic Violence leadership and activism, as a part of the National Conference on Health and Domestic Violence. Students from all areas of health care will come together for a common goal: to become leaders in the realm of domestic violence.

This action oriented session will highlight:

- Health care assessment for domestic violence
- Domestic violence activism on graduate campuses
- Link between community and campus programs
- Recent relevant research
- Leadership training
